ANOTHER FIGHT AT CORINTH.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 31-10 n. m.

By the arrival of the brig Crimea, Capt. Lassen, we have war news to the 20th: CINCINNATI, Dec. 19th .- The Army of the CAIRO, Dec. 19.—We have nothing of importance from Gen. Grant's army. It is stated that the rebel fortifications at Vicksburg have been greatly strengthened, and families are packing up ready to evacuate on an anticipated assault from the Federals.

FORTHESS MONROE, Dec. 19.—Gen. Foster's forces have captured Kingston, North Carolina, taking 500 prisoners and 11 pieces of artillery.

There is no truth whatever in the report

There is no truth whatever in the report that Gen. Banks is co-operating with the troops at Suffolk. Nothing reliable has yet been heard of the expedition.

The Richmond Dispatch of the 16th says the rebel loss at Fredericksburg was 2,500. They lost quite a number of field officers. The Third South Carolina Regiment was nearly annihilated. The same paper contains a dispatch from Goldsboro, stating that 3,000 and saidings toward the Abolitionists at rebel soldiers tought the Abolitionists at Kingston from eight o'clock in the morning until one in the asternoon; and that after driving off the Abolitionists once they retarned, when the rebel General Evans was compelled to retire, leaving the vandals to occupy the town. No report of loss on either side. The town was considerably damaged by gombardment. A Noshville telegram of the 18th says that Gen. Dodge with his cavalry had been fight-ing Ferest all the day in the vicinity of Corinth. Forest has 4,000, and Dodge 2,500 Cornth. The whole rebel force in Tennessee is estimated at 80,000. They had 25,000 at Murfaceshore existence, with their sutposts with

The Old and New Year.

Another year has passed over our heads The year of grace, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three to-day commences its career. We hope we may have to chronicle at its end the continuation of the progress that has characterised the past twelve months. For progress there has been to a most cheering extent. No matter from what point we view our development, there is every ground for congratulation. Everything shows a rapid and healthy growth. Everything tends to inspire confidence in the progress of the col-Indeed, the last year's anticipations have been more than realized-they have been exceeded even in their most sanguing view. Our gold mines have been tested, and have not been found wanting. They have been proved, so far as they have been worked to be among the very richest, if not the rich est, in the world. Though numbers went up to them and did not succeed in effecting the object they had in view, still nothing has transpired in any degree to diminish the con fidence of sensible men in their productive powers. This last year has been in a grea measure one of preparation. The superstructure has been laid for greater results in the future. The long line of wagon road through good part completed. From its construction the most beneficial effects may be expected The unprepared state of the country during a good part of the past twelvemonths is not likely to be reneated another year. Hance forth the supplies required in the mines mus continue to grow cheaper from the decrease of the difficuties of transportation. This year will in all probability see the wagon road finished into the mines. Not only the wagor road shall we have but also the trail by way o Bute Inlet. Last year has seen its inauguration; this year, we hope, will see its com pletion. This year also will, no doubt. see the further development of the new gold mines on Peace river, and it may be on the headwaters of the Stekin.

As regards the agricultural interest of the country the prospects are much more favor able. The past year has shown what an extensive tract of country there exists to the north of us, most excellently adapted for farming purposes. Quite a large portion of it too has already been taken up by actual settlers who have made considerable improvements. Trails have been run and partially completed. This year no doubt will see these developed into tolerable wagon roads. There is plenty of work before the Govern ment in this direction. Every attention must be paid to encouraging people to settle down upon the land in those districts. Give good roads and mail communication to those who are already there, and it will go a good way towards inducing others to make the country their home.

The great feature of last year's progress however, is the vast increase of the commerce of the port. To those who were here in 1861, the contrast is most striking. Eve since early last spring the harbor has been filled with shipping, both American and English, And, notwithstanding this, there has been no glut in our market ;-our position as a port of distribution enabling us to dispose of any surplus remaining after the supply of our home wants. This fact will, no doubt, have the effect of still further increasing our trade for the coming year. With this increase, in addition to the attraction presented by our mines, we will, no doubt, have a corresponding addition to our population. On this latter score we have no cause to complain of our growth during the past twelve months. The fact of our population having more than doubled its self is sufficiently encouraging. We have only to allude to the astonishing growth of the city to convince the most sceptical that we are progressing most rapidly.

In order to allow those connected with the establishment to enjoy the holiday, there will be no paper issued to-morrow morning.

A Parliamentary Library. Is it not time that something were towards the formation of a parliamentary Library for this colony? Our Legislature has certainly been long enough in existence to have felt the want of so necessary and so useful an institution. The youth of the colony and its small population have the effect of making this requirement all the more urgent, as the kind of works most suitable to the wants of the members of the Legislature, is among the least in demand with the generality of readers. The consequence is, that broksellers cannot afford to keep many of them in their stock. Books are among the necessities of modern times; they furnish food for the intellect which cannot well be done without. They are the storehouses which contain that knowledge, the whole of which no man can carry about with him. No professional man, he he what he may, can do without them. Why, then, should those who occupy the important position of legisla-tors be deprived of the important aid which a good library would give in forming a sound judgment on the affairs they are called upon to deal with? The expense may be urged as an obstacle to the attainment of that object. If it were required to provide an extensive library at once, the present state of colonial finances would not perhaps allow of it; bu we need not do that. The thing must be done gradually; a small sum spont every year would not be felt from the public revenues, while, properly expended, it would serve to provide a number of most useful works, and form the foundation of a good library, which would be annually increasing. There would be no necessity of appointing any new office for some time to come. The clerk of the House of Assembly could easily manage the duties of librarian until they became extensive enough to require the assistance of another hand. The Government buildings would furnish room enough for the collection for years, PANTS! so that the whole undertaking might be carried out on the most economical terms possible. Large accessions might be made to the library by soliciting the Transactions and

Acts of the Home and Colonial Government;

also those of the United States and other foreign powers. A vast amount of most useful information could thus be amassed at little or no expense. It only requires the will and a little management to have the thing inaugurated at the next session of the Legislature. And when once the foundation building a superstructure that may be one day a source of pride to the colony.

THE GREAT BATTLE OF THE PRESENT WAR.

GRAPHIC NARRATIVE OF THE BAT-TLE OF FREDERICKSBURG.

13,000 Federals Killed.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—In the absence of other news, the following detailed account of the battle of Fredericksburg on Saturday is interesting: Franklin, on the left moved his column at sunrise, his right resting on the outskirts of the city, his centre advanced a mile or so from the river, and his left resting on the Rapahannock, three miles below. Skirmishing commenced a few minutes after daylight on the extreme left. A robel batteries was repeated again in the afternoon, with the point of the bayonet. The order was obeyed with alacrity, but after a fierce struggle the charging and take it at the point of the bayonet. The order was obeyel with alacrity, but after a fierce strug-gle the charging party was compelled to fall back. At this critical moment, Gen. Tyler, perceiving the disorder into which the 9th were thrown, came to their aid with his bri-

The rebels maintained the possession of the ame, and some hills, with unasual stubbornness, but gradually fell back as the Union troops evinced a determination to go forward.

During the afternoon the rebels came to a stand, and lor a time assumed the offensive; but as they advanced to meet us, they were bravely met and repulsed with heavy loss At this time some 300 of Hill's command fell into our hands, and were conducted to rear as prisoners. Still the enemy contested every part of the ground, and it was only by the dint of the hardest kind of fighting that he could be compelled to change his position. The obstimicy with which the rebols held possession of their 'ground rendered Franklin's task very difficult. He had to cope with Stonewall Jackson's veterans of Cedar Mountain, Ball Run and Antietam—troops about properties of their husiness thoroughly. she understood their business thoroughly and were not to the scared by trifles; hence the task of turning the ret.els' position on the Mattaponax, was no ordinary one; still, the Union commander was not discouraged—he had driven the enemy back some distance. 13,055 and notwithstanding his troops fought with awful bravery, they were gradually pushed southward. At sundown, Franklin had sucsouthward. At sundown, Franklin had succeeded in driving the enemy nearly a mile, and his troops occupied the field during the remainder of the night.

The movement on the left was a complete

The movement on the left was a complete success. The casualties on both sides are very numerous. Reynolds' corps advanced before the dense fog had lifted itself from the river banks, and at about 9 o'clock the enemy's infantry were engaged on the opposite side. The columns that fairly got to work when the rebel artillery commenced playing upon us through the log. The shots, aimed at tracking bowers restored little after. No random, however, produced little effect. Not-withstanding the view was so obscured, the rebel artillerists kept up a cannonade fo several hours, and as peal after peal sounded through the air, the effect was terribly subline. The fire was returned by our bat-taries in a gallant style, and for hours nothing but a dealening roar of artiflery could be heard on all sides, up to doon, when the for oget a glance at the cambonists were entered on and one of a glance at the cnemy's works. The ight was an artillery one, and productive of no very important results on either side. As soon as the sun showed itself, however, the infantry were brought into play, and the work commenced in real carnest Gens. Mead and Gibbons' divisions encoun and Longstreet's veterans. The fight raged and Longstreet's veterials. The light rages, furiously during the entire day, and our troop suffered terribly from the enemy's artillery. The enemy were posted behind hills in grea strength, and at one time it seemed impossi ble to distodge them. About noon, Gen. Gibbens was relieved by Gen. Doubleday's command. Gen. It was in the midst of this struggle that Gen. Gibbens was wound and never the field and never the field. ed and partially disabled. He kept the field during the remainder of the day nowever, during the remainder of the day.

During the afternoon, Newton's division was moved up to the left of the centre, when the firing, which had ceased in that part of the field, broke out again with redoubled fury.
Our troops were here again exposed to a plunging fire from the enemy's artillery, which was posted on the naisthering little which was posted on the neighboring hills, and for a short time the Federal soldiers were and for a short time the recent sources were exposed to a destructive fire, our artillery returned the fi e with accuracy of aim and unwavering courage.

General Summer, commanding the Seventh Corps, commenced the action on the right at 10 o'clock, and maintained it furiously all day.

The enemy occupied the woods and hills in the rear of the city, and in point of advantage the odds were decidedly in their favor. The courage of the Federal troops was unbounded, however, and every inch of ground the contested. It soon became eviwas nobly contested. It soon became evident that the first ridge of hills, on which the enemy were posted behind earthworks, could not be carried, except at the point of the bayonet. Accordingly, General Sumner ordered General French's division to charge upon their batteries. General Howard's division acted as a support, and the troops sprang forward to obey the order with enthusiasm. ward to obey the order with enthusiasm

Steadily they marched across the plain, and never failtered until they were within a dozen yards of the ridge, when suddenly they were met by a galling fire from the rebel infantry posted behind a stone wall. For a few moments, the lead of the column exhibited some confusion. head of the column exhibited some confusion head of the commencements some contactor, but quickly forming into line, they retired back to a ravine, within musket shot of the enemy. Reinforcements having arrived, and the line of assault being again formed, the order to advance at double quick, with fixed bayonets, was given, and once more the columns advanced to dislodge the robel artillery. From the moment the storming party left the ravine, up to the time they receded the foot of the hill, they were exposed to the hottest fire of the conemy. The concentrated fire of Lee's artillery, and infantry rained upon their devoted heads in a manner truly terriffic. No troops, however disbed the foot of poor Byrne, and although it is time they recend the loot of the init, they were exposed to the hottest fire of the enemy. The concentrated fire of Lee's artillery and infantry rained upon their devoted heads in a manner truly terrific. No troops, however disciplined or brave, could withstand the shock, and after suffering terribly, our soldiers were thown into disorder and brought to a sudden halt; at this juncture the centre column gave way and fled in dismay, but were afterwards rallied and brought back.

A second and a third attempt were made to dislodge the Rebei Artillerists, in vain, and at each attempt the ranks of the storming parand fled in dismay, but were afterwards

HOME MANUFACTURE-PRESERVATION OF

by Mon. Casse of View street, in this city, for yet it seems to answer the purpose most efwashed in water, cut very fine, and then put into a dish and placed in an oven until they are dried. After this is accomplished, which

The Court adjourned, and next morning The Court adjourned, and next morning charged the jury, in substance as follows:
He said: "It is my duty to sum up this protracted case; I feel a difficulty in doing so. I admit that I experience much difficulty in setting aside personal feelings brought into action by the way in which this case has been conducted. A great part of the plaintiff's case is to always a injury done to limit. been conducted. A great part of the plaintiff's case is to shew an injury done to him in another cause. Though it is unbecoming a judge, I must defend myself from attack and in self-defence, I must say that I am not aware of having any bias whatever in favor of the defendant, as has been more than insinuated. To the plaintiff I have no feeling of animosity; on the other hand—to the defendant, none of favor. I must hold the scales couldly. I never exchanged more than five fendant, none of favor. I must hold the scales equally. I never exchanged more than five minutes' conversation with Mr. Wright, and this was in reference to his wagon road. He asked for information and I could give him none. I never took a meal in his presence except at Lorenzos' after the Lilloose trial, when through his counsel he made an application in reference to his arrest. I always called him Mr. Wright. It is insinuated that I have paid him marked respect; but not any more than he is entitled to. Again, the term "sheaves of allidavits" is not a new reany more than he is entitled to. Again, the term "sheaves of affidavits" is not a new remark. It is a term often used and heard in a court of justice. The jury at Lilloot, however, found that Mr. Wright was right. I cautioned that jury not to trust Mr. Wright's memorandum. It was well known he could'nt manufacture evidence for hieraff, attention piece of lead we have ever handled. The next operation is placing the cakes in tin cans, which are afterwards hermetically sealed, and they are then ready for transmission to any part of the world, keeping fresh and good lor years. About an ounce of the dried mass is equal when steeped in water for a couple of hours, to a pound of the green vegetables. We are told by a gentleman who tried them at Cariboo last season, that he could not tell the difference between those imported in this form, and vegetables coming manufacture evidence for himself, although the then defendants called for the memorandum. The case did'nt turn upon that memorandum. I left the jury to decide certain points, and among others, they found that John Cranford was jointly liable to Mr. Wright. I spoke as favorably of John Cranford as Mr. Ring has done, perhaps not so vehemently. Aspersions on character should be avoided. I am ashamed to say that I feel this explanation necessary.

be avoided. I am ashamed to say that I feel this explanation necessary.

The bulk of this action will be decided upon two points—the one is for you—the other for me to decide.

The defendant has paid money into Court which plaintiff's counsel contend is an admission of the contract. If I shall be of opinion that the contract is not selected in the that the contract is not selected in the contract. sion of the contract. If I shall be of opinion that the contract is not admitted, it is then for mo to say whether the plaintiff has not in fact disproved it. But the defendant by this act may have admitted the totality of contract, if so, discussion on this point ceases, and it is for you to measure the damages.

Mr. Ring—The declaration was held on decreased.

demurer to const. of one count.

I bolieve it was, and the plaintiff claims that a reasonable time, that is to say, 10, 12, or 15 days, is that within which the contract should have been performed. He refers to his particulars as a videlicet. I think the declaration is ambiguous, and there is not there in a vidence. declaration is ambiguous, and there is nothing in evidence to support a contract for 10 or 12 days. The three memoranda produced are all essentially different, and the difference is considerable. All omit the quantum of goods. A reference to time only occurs in Mr. Freeman's, and is absent in the two others. The duration of the contract is expressed in one by the words "during the energing season," and any units change. is expressed in one by the words "during the onsuing season," and an entire absence of this exists in the two others. I think it my duty to point this out, for evidence has been elicited to prove that no two men on the portages could jointly fulfil the contract without sacrificing every one else. The amount, 50,000 lbs., was an unreasonable one to carry in that time. The plaintill has failed, and in fact has disproved his contract. If he had amended as invited, it might have been different.

Mr. Ring here referred to powers o nendment given to the Court by Common Law Procedure Act.

The Judge-I think that amendment by

The Judge—I think that amendment by the Court is not compulsory: it is optional, and the Act referred to does not at any rate apply to this kind of amendment.

[Here a discussion ensued, and as usual was a warm one.]

The Judge (greatly excited)—I shall hear no more about this; I am not a tyrant; I am not a fool. (Sensation.)

I am not sure what we may consider as the real contract, but I am inclined to think that the payment into Court by defendant admits the contract to carry and the breach as set out. But as much confusion exists among the authorities as one witness told you existed oat. But as much confusion exists among the authorities as one witness told you existed throughout the proceedings at Lilloet. Were it not for this miserable payment, I would make short work of the matter.

To Mr. Walker—Was the money paid in regularly 7 Is there no way in which you can withdraw this unfortunate plea?

I have great respect for the opinion of such a man as Lord Chief Justice Jervis, as expressed in the case cited by counsel, but I shall adopt the practice laid down in Stephens' Lush. The plaintiff is entitled to his costs up to the time of the payment into Court; but I don't think the whole contract is admitted by it. The time of transit I think is not admitted.

Mr. Ring—The contract is one and indivis? Mr. Ring -The contract is one and indivisa

The Judge—Take a bill of exceptions to

to be argued before Mr. Cameron at Victoria 7 An appeal from you is an appeal from Cæsar unto Cæsar. The Judge-No! (Resumed.) As to the Judge—No: (Resumed.) As to damages at Williams Creek prices, I shall simply say they are out of the question. If any damages are found they must be those sustained by non-delivery at Lilloeet; and here, I think, with a view to a settlement, I am straining a point in layer of the parameter and perhaps overstepping my powers.

To Mr. Walker—I am afraid I am doing you an injustice; but I hope you'li take a bill of exceptions if you think so. You see, Mr. Walker, what it is to be a friend of the Court, The evidence of Mr. Robt, Cranford, as to prices, &c., is, I think, perfectly trustworthy; but is meanneated.

prices, &c., is, 1 think, periectly trustworiny, but is unsupported.

Mr. Ring—Contrast it with Mr. Wright's. The Judge—Mr. Ring, if you make Mr. Wright a complete liarned the most unworthy man on the earth, it won't prove your case.

The Judge then reviewed the evidence as to the time consoliding by suggesting to the to the time, concluding by suggesting to the jury, if he might be allowed, that 40 days was a reasonable time to get through 50.000 pounds of goods. Then the damage will be pounds of goods. Then the damage will be the fall in prices when they were delivered from when they ought to have been delivered. As to the bacon damaged, I am of opinion that Mr. Wright is not responsible. It was bad at Douglas. You will compute the delays from the time the goods started from Douglas, not from the time they arrived there. I withdraw the beens from your conthere. I withdraw the beans from your con-
